U. of P. Alumni Honor Gene Davis

Class of 1915 Gives Annual Award to Narberth Man

Eugene H. (Gene) Davis, Jr., of Narberth, was the recipient of a new honor Saturday night when he received the Class of 1915 Award as the University of Pennsylvania's outstanding athlete. The presentation was made at the 1915 class midwinter reunion in the Mask and Wig clubhouse.

Davis captained Penn's 1941 football team and played quarterback. He also is a member of the varsity baseball team, replacing Frank Reagan behind the bat.

The award was presented by Charles M. Thompson, Jr., class president, who singled out Davis as "that member of the senior class who most closely approaches the ideal University of Pennsylvania athlete."

The award annually is made on the basis of character, personality, scholastic standing and athletic ability. A committee composed of faculty members, class and athletic departments made the selection.

A student in the School of Education, Davis is the 12th undergraduate receiving the award. Others were Barney Berlinger, Jerry Ford, Billy Carr, Don Kellett, Ken Hashagen, Gene Venzke, Franny Murray, Bob Dougherty, Bob Altman, Allan Hunter, Jr., and Frank Reagan.

Davis, a graduate of Episcopal Academy, concluded a brilliant gridiron career last fall. He was characterized by Coach George Munger and by opposing coaches, as one of the season's brainiest field generals.

As a freshman, Davis played halfback and quarterback. In his sophomore year he was made a blocking back and quarterback, a post he held for three seasons. He started six of eight games in his first varsity season and kicked a 14-yard placement goal in the Michigan game.

Al Herrmann Wins Loop Scoring Title

Suiter Most Valuable Player; Jones Voted Best on Defense

Al Herrmann, burly Clifton Heights guard who pitches for Narberth during the baseball season, captured the individual scoring title in the Main Line Basketball League.

Needing 17 points in his final game against Wayne to beat out Bob Crowell, of Narberth, Herrmann tallied 21 points in a remarkable performance Monday and wound up with a final total of 241 points for the season. Competing in 27 games, he tallied 104 field goals and 33 free throws.

Crowell, son of Wilmer Crowell, famous football official, finished second with 236. He played in three less games than Herrmann and scored 91 field goals and 54 charity goals. Inc Penman, Wayne center, was third with 218, while Franny Boucher, Earlington Men's Club, was fourth with 215.

Best average in point-making was turned in by Bobby Suiter, former pro league and Penn A. C. player who joined Upper Darby in mid-season. He tallied 150 points in 11 games, slightly better than an average of 13 a game. His consistent, deadly shooting was largely responsible for Upper Darby finishing in first place and as a result he was voted the league's most valuable player by the managers and sports writers.

Len Jones, former Lower Merion High captain who plays with Narberth, was voted the best defensive player in the circuit, but strangely didn't make either the first or second all-star teams.

Set Dates For Registration In Township and Boro

Traveling registrars of the Montgomery County Voters' Registration Commission will sit at the Lower Merion Township Building, Ardmore, on April 1, 2 and 9 and at the Borough Hall, Narberth, on March 27 and April 10, to enroll new voters and conduct other registration business.

All women who have married since they were registered and persons who have moved are especially urged to have their voting registration record corrected.

Voters who failed to vote during the past two years and whose names have been removed from the registration rolls may re-register. This is also the opportunity to register for those who have recently become 21 years of age.

The Terrible-Tempered Dr. Barnes (Alias The Honey-Bee) Reveals All

Take it from the Terrible-Tempered Dr. Barnes, the articulate art collector of Merion, he's really all sweetness and light.

Of course he'll admit, sinking his square, gray-thatched head between bull shoulders, that occasionally he speaks frankly to would-be visitors to his internationally-famed Barnes Foundation.

And he'll admit that in some of the cases—say 100 percent—he impales his victims with such furious barbs that they'll be quivering until Kingdom Come.

It may be news to the rest of the country, but not to his neighbors along the Main Line.

Breaking one type of journalistic silence that he has observed religiously during the time his Argvrol millions enabled Dr. Albert Coombs Barnes to become the owner of perhaps the outstanding private art collection in the world, he has now authorized a series of magazine articles.

These began in the March 21 issue of the Saturday Evening Post and are written by Carl W. McCordie, a Philadelphia reporter.

As most of Philadelphia, and particularly the Main Line, knows, Dr. Barnes is not only art collector and unpredictable neighbor, but is a recognized scientist, art connoisseur, gourmet, educator and writer—extraordinary of poison pen letters—the latter directed at what he considers stuffed shirts.

Like the box of paints which the irascible doctor would so dearly like to have used as a young man (but he lacked sufficient talent), an artist might use Dr. Barnes' material for any kind of picture.

He is an undoubted benefactor of talented young artists.

Classes of these young painters—Gentiles, Jews, blacks and whites—are held regularly at the Barnes Foundation. His rules require that the young men and women have talent. Next, that they need help and have been attempting to help themselves.

Opposing this more gentle facet of the acidulous Argvrol king is his rough treatment of men or women who would like to take a look at his 200 Renoirs, 100 Cezannes, 75 masterpieces, 35 Picassos and the remainder of his thousand or more art treasures.

His brush-off is brutal. If, perchance, someone gets him on the telephone he is apt not to tell them "Dr. Barnes is dead" as "This is the janitor. I can't disturb him." Or launch into an unprintable tirade.

Memorable and typical is one sample quoted. Replying to a titled refugee just arrived in this country, he declared that the day Her Highness wished to see the art exhibits the Foundation was being given over to a strip-tease contest for debutantes. Guests were to be limited to the deb's boy-friends.

You think the Terrible-Tempered Dr. Barnes sounds a little far fetched? Ask his neighbors.

Narberth Meets Upi-Dah, Brookline Tackles Wayne As League Playoffs Start

With the regulation season ending in a less complicated manner than anticipated, the four first-division teams in the Main Line Basketball League are now going about the serious business of deciding which will reign as champion.

Upper Darby managed to defeat Berwyn with ease, 46-18, in its postponed game last Monday night and as a result finished in undisputed possession of first place. Brookline and Narberth wound up in a deadlock for second place while Wayne finished fourth as a result of Clifton Heights' 15-14 victory.

Brookline, defending champion which is appearing in the playoffs for the fifth straight year, won the toss for the second place spot and paired off with Wayne in the preliminary playoffs. Upper Darby and Narberth thus became the rivals in the other three-game series.

These two series got underway at Radnor High School tonight. The second games will be played Monday at Haverford High School and if third games are necessary they will be played next Thursday at Radnor or at Haverford College.

If the preliminary series should end in two games, the championship five game series between the two survivors would get underway next Thursday. If Wayne is in the final series Radnor will be the scene of the Thursday contests, otherwise Haverford College and Haverford High will be used as alternate courts.

The outcome of both preliminary playoffs was regarded as a toss-up, although many were conceding Brookline and Upper Darby slight edges. Brookline defeated Wayne, 46-18, and Upper Darby defeated

Marvin Reynolds Dies Suddenly

Township Health Officer Would Have Been 80 in April

Marvin E. Reynolds, health officer in Lower Merion for more than 30 years, died suddenly of pneumonia on March 12 after a brief illness.

He would have been 80 on April 27.

Mr. Reynolds, who had been active not only in health but political, fire company, church and other community affairs, started work for the township in 1908 as an official in the sewer department.

Prior to that he had been connected with the American Pipe Company as an engineer.

He became health officer here when the Board of Health was created and was separated from the Department of Sewers.

Mr. Reynolds was a Fourth Degree Knight, Knights of Columbus; a member of Bishop Kenrick Council, Knights of Columbus.

Ardmore, and attended Our Mother of Good Counsel Church, Bryn Mawr.

Surviving him at his home, 905 Old Lancaster rd., Bryn Mawr, is his wife, Annie Lynch Reynolds; two sons, Harry D. and Edward J., and a daughter, Isabel. His son Marvin E., Jr., lives in Bala-Cynwyd, and another, Roger B., in Bryn Mawr.

Mr. Reynolds had been Republican Committeeman representing West Bryn Mawr for more than three decades.

He also was active in the Bryn Mawr Fire Company until shortly before his death. Last June he and Mrs. Reynolds celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a family party given by their children.

A native of Philadelphia, he was educated in the schools there.

Pittman To Speak At Art Center

His talk, entitled "Seeing Differently," will be illustrated with slides and with paintings by children at Friends' Central. The talk is open to the public without charge.

Pupils Buy $2750 In Defense Stamps

As their part in the United States war effort, school children here have bought more than $2750 in defense stamps and bonds.

A partial listing shows Ardmore Junior High School, $720.35; Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School, $1481.70, and the Senior High School, $548.50.

Neely Warns of Fire Hazards

Defense Council Head Spoke at Neighborhood Club

A warning that 300 fires may be started simultaneously in Lower Merion Township as a result of bombing was given by Walter C. Neely, chairman of the Lower Merion Defense Council, speaking at a meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club Tuesday night.

The meeting, which was open to the public, was held at the Union Fire Hall, Cynwyd, with Leo D. Tyrrell, president of the club, presiding.

Stressing the need for every household to be prepared to cope with incendiary bombs, Neely explained that a bomber can carry a sufficient load of incendiary bombs to drop one every 50 yards for a five-mile stretch.

Since Lower Merion township is five and one-quarter miles in length, one bomber could start 300 fires at one time in this township.

"The five fire companies which need the householders' help if these conflagrations were to be kept under control," Neely advised, "and Lower Merion Township should be prepared."

A demonstration of the best method of extinguishing such bombs was given by Fire Marshal Frank Pollack, who recently returned from Edgewood Arsenal where he completed a course in Chemical Warfare.

"A magnesium bomb will go through four stories in seven seconds," said Pollack. "To extinguish it, pour sand on it but be sure the sand is dry." The Fire Marshal warned that a Pyrene Fire Extinguisher should never be used on a magnesium bomb since the chemical reaction produces deadly fumes.

A commercial product named duMap, which is sold in gasoline service stations, was effectively demonstrated in putting out a fire started with magnesium shavings.

Pollack warned that in the case of a gas attack, mustard gas will probably be used. He demonstrated the airtight suit which will be worn by members of the Gas Squad in case of a gas attack. One hundred of these suits have been purchased by the Township and allotted to the Police and Fire Departments and to a number of doctors and nurses.

Preparations have been made to have school buses evacuate people from gassed areas to the hospital or to a nearby field station. No special gas attack warning has been developed as yet, he said.

Every Air Raid Warden is being provided with a police whistle to be used to alert people in case of an air raid, Neely stated. In answer to a question, he stated that no steps have been taken to build air raid shelters in the Township but that the Air Raid Shelter Committee is collecting cross ties from the railroads and storing building materials in preparation.

Among the Bala-Cynwyd citizens who were present at the meeting were Frank H. Sykes, former president of the Lower Merion Township Commissioners; Dr. Howard Hovde, University of Pennsylvania professor; Dr. D. W. Hough, chairman of the Bala-Cynwyd Red Cross; Fire Chief William L. Hornung, Russell S. Callow, crew coach at the University of Pennsylvania and Boy Scout executive. Former presidents of the Neighborhood Club, Henry F. Sharpe, and Edmund G. S. Flannigan; and Mrs. Charles Neville, former president of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs and ex-president of the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club.

Fit School To Children, Not Pupils To Their Studies

Is Board's New Program

Lower Merion Educators Plan Teaching Change After Long Study; Tests Were Made in 1940 of 4th Grade

Your Trash Can Aid War Effort

Narberth householders are aiding the National Defense effort every time they set out a basket of trash for the Borough trash collector, thanks to arrangements made by the Borough Council.

Under this arrangement, all trash is sorted at the dump and only that which is absolutely worthless is destroyed. The rest is salvaged and sent to the proper agencies to be reclaimed. Thus waste—paper, metal and other material thrown away by the householder—becomes a contribution to wartime production.

Up until May 8, ash and trash collections are made weekly; the week of May 11 has been designated as "Clean-up Week," when a thorough search of his property for material which is no longer useful is urged on every citizen, and beginning on May 25, an every-other-week collection of trash and ashes will be instituted.

Board Opposes Suggested Tax

L. M. Commissioners Transfer Tree Funds To Defense Work

Determination of the Lower Merion Township Board of Commissioners to protect Lower Merion citizens insofar as possible against rising taxes was seen Wednesday night when the Board passed a resolution opposing the imposition of Federal income taxes on income or interest from state and municipal securities. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Washington.

The commissioners approved the opening and making public of several roads in the township including Cynwyd Circle, West Princeton rd., Bala-Cynwyd; Vassar rd., Powder Mill lane, Brinton Park drive, Brookhaven rd. and Rock Glen rd.

Bids were opened and contracts for equipment, services and supplies were awarded as follows:

To Cynwyd Painting and Decorating Company, for painting the interior of the Township Building, at $2150.

To the Hirsch-Tyler Company for Spring uniforms for the police force—shirts, $3, breeches, $11.95, and to the Philadelphia Uniform Co. for caps, $1.95.

To the Main Line Pontiac for a new Township ambulance, at $3315.

To Merion Motors for a Plymouth sedan at a net price of $445.

The resignation of Patrolman Joseph Muloli, effective March 9, was received and accepted.

The commissioners rejected all bids for trees to be planted on the Ashbridge property, deciding to transfer the funds previously allocated to this purpose to the Defense Committee. The sum thus transferred was $2200.

They approved the purchase of additional air raid sirens for sections of the township where surveys show the present alarm system cannot be heard satisfactorily, and of 1200 police whistles for the use of Air Raid Wardens.

It was announced that E. C. Gegenheimer, 349 Wister rd., Wynnewood, had been appointed to the Lower Merion Council of Defense to replace H. H. Pevier, who has been transferred to Harrisburg.

Merion Woman Bequeaths $200,000

An estate of $200,000 and upwards was left by Mary S. Colladay, Merion, who died on February 26.

After bequeathing personal effects to a daughter, Marguerite C. McCreery, the residue is placed in trust, and $25 a month paid to a cousin, Mrs. Elizabeth Updegrave, Pottstown.

Issued Two Building Permits in February

During February two building permits valued at $700 were issued in the Borough of Narberth.

One was for an addition to the garage of E. A. Bailey, 607 Essex av., and a new roof on the garage of C. A. Peeney, 309 S. Narberth av.

One hundred and nine building inspections were made; one oil burner permit issued and 34 burners

A long-range program of providing class work to fit the child, rather than shoe-horning him into a mold, has been put in motion by the Lower Merion School Board.

Decision to take action on this somewhat revolutionary plan of education came as the Board met on March 16 and only after a thorough study of tests made as far back as 1940.

Next tests are expected to be made of pupils in the ninth grade.

It is believed by the Board that a more honest and a truer education can be given each child if his individual talents and capacities are determined and his class work is shaped generally along such lines.

Tests were made in November of 1940 of all pupils in the fourth grade in the school district.

Individual intelligence quotients (I. Q.'s) secured on this group test through the California Short Form Test of Mental Maturity, were further substantiated by individual Binet tests in approximately 70 cases, a Board report points out.

The Education Department of Bryn Mawr College, administered by Dr. Elizabeth Fehrer, cooperated by giving the Binet tests and verifying the data.

Assuming that an I. Q. of 100 is normal for an elementary school population, the report continues, it is clearly evident that a median score of 115 for the fourth grade children in this district indicated a high proportion of children of superior ability among our total school population.

The pupils of our fourth grades may be assumed to be representative of all grades except on the high school level where, under ordinary circumstances, the scores should be higher due to pupils of the lowest ability withdrawing from school.

An analysis of the scores follows:

Of 363 pupils tested, the middle score was 115. Ten persons scored more than 150; 143 persons scored higher than 120. Only 84 persons or 23 percent scored less than 100 (normal).

Of the 84 persons scoring less than 100, 20 scored less than 80.

Scores above 150 indicate very high ability; 2 pupils scored the high score of 167.

Other factors being normal, a person who scores 120 should be successful in college work. The army now considers a score of 110 necessary to justify training an individual as a commissioned officer. A study of a few years ago revealed that the median intelligence quotient of eastern private schools was 115.

There is little likelihood that a person scoring less than 80 will be successful with normal work of the later elementary grades. However, this should not be construed to mean that low scoring pupils cannot learn many useful social things that a suitable school program can teach.

Without going into great detail it becomes evident that this district serves a pupil population having one of the largest proportion of high ability pupils in the country.

It also indicates the justification for a varied program of education offering the richest experience and a different program for children of varying interests and abilities.

There is a place in society for all our people. The school is one of the major agencies for assisting the family and the individual to meet the requirements of a democratic society, the report concludes.

"Olivet to Calvary" To Be Sung Sunday At Lutheran Church

Mauder's "Olivet to Calvary" will be sung at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Narberth, on Passion Sunday, March 22, at 4 P. M.

Soloists will be Florence Senft, soprano; Russell Basler, tenor, and Owen Schmidt, bass. The Senior Choir will also participate, and Miss Margaret Squier is organist and director.

13 Fire Alarms Were Sounded in February

Thirteen fire alarms were answered by the Narberth Fire Company during February. Eleven of these were grass fires and the other two, dwellings.

Property damage was estimated at $40,000, according to the report submitted to Borough Council Monday night.

At the same time Council received a report from Magistrate Ollie Duer that $25 in traffic fines had been

Tamiroff Is Villain In Dumas Yarn

A new role for Akim Tamiroff usually means that he acquires a new "kick" at something other than acting. It is one of the notions of this actor, who started with the Moscow Art Theatre, and who has since played in many of the world's great theatres, that he should play a villain in a play. He has now chosen to play the villain in a play by Dumas, "The Three Musketeers".

CALLING THE TURN

by L. M. FORD

Although a lot of local fans were disappointed at having to travel to Lebanon to see the PIAA tournament game between Lower Merion and Gettysburg, we believe the starting of the game update was a definite break for L. M. in several respects.

First, it gave Coach Bill Anderson's pupils the incentive to prove to one and all that they could win just as easily on a foreign court as at the Palestra, where most of their tournament games have been played in recent years.

Secondly, it should have helped eliminate a lot of the criticism which has been directed at Lower Merion by schools in upstate districts and elsewhere. Many have believed Lower Merion was getting away with murder by playing all its games at the Palestra. There was the claim, and there was a lot of truth to it, that an upstate team that played L. M. at the Palestra had two strikes on it because the game started simply because the Main Liners were so anxious to get to the Penn court as their home floor here at Ardmore.

P. G. Roth of J. M. Harris High School, Harrisburg, who is chairman of the District Three PIAA committee, summed up the situation very laconically.

"We weren't trying to be mean when we held out and insisted on Lower Merion playing our representative upstate," he explained, "followed the battle at Lebanon Tuesday night. We only thought it was fair that Lower Merion do a bit of traveling for a change. In the first time in more than ten years that a District One District Three game has been played anywhere but Philadelphia."

"I think we did Lower Merion a favor by making them to play up here. It will take a lot of criticism that's been pointed their way. After all, they can't help it that the only big basketball arena in the state is situated in their own back yard. But most fans can't see it that way."

"Lower Merion certainly added to its prestige by beating Gettysburg at Lebanon. If they had done it at the Palestra, many people would have thought the better team hadn't won," concluded Roth.

"Praise for Ludwig. Woody Ludwig, the former Penn athlete who is now head football coach at Shamokin High School, scouted the Gettysburg-Lower Merion game for Ben Thomas, Shamokin basketball coach, and was much impressed by the Maroon.

"I'll take this year's Lower Merion team above most of Bill Anderson's other championship teams," he said with apparent sincerity. "I think it's a grand team. Course, there's no one like Ira Rich out there, but as a team it's as good as any Lower Merion team I've seen. It has so much heart and it is so well balanced. I don't know what else a coach could ask for."

What did he think of Shamokin's chances against the Main Liners? "Well, to tell you frankly, I think Lower Merion would go further in the tournament than Shamokin," he said. "But I think our boys have it in them to rise to great heights by pointing for one or two games. They're liable to beat anybody. Lower Merion will have height on us but they'll never outfight us. It ought to be a very good game."

Warning from Thrust

Bernie Thrust, who coached Lebanon High to the state crown two years ago, beating Lower Merion en route, didn't go overboard on the Maroon. He said it looked like an average Lower Merion but he wasn't sure how far they'd go.

"Don't take too much stock in this Gettysburg victory," he warned. "Gettysburg got its reputation by handing William Penn High of Harrisburg its only defeat. Personally, I thought William Penn was far over-rated."

That sounds like pretty good advice. Don't get too optimistic fellows. Keep your feet on the ground and take 'em one at a time. The main thing to remember is that the next one is always the toughest. Beat Shamokin!

Who's Gonna Win?

After the most hectic, give and take campaign in the history of the Main Line Basketball League it isn't going to be an easy job picking the winners of the post season playoffs. Upper Darby's first place team has drawn Narberth and Brookline, defending champion and perennial constant in these post-season eliminations, is paired with Wayne. Whom will meet in the finals? Say, your guess is as good as anyone.

Frankly we have a hunch it'll be Narberth vs Brookline when the championship series gets underway.

We've always figured Narberth had the strongest team in the league but it was handicapped by not having all its players on hand consistently. In the playoffs Manager Jiggs Torchiana assures us all his boys will be there every time they go to the court.

That being the case we believe Narberth will be able to take the preliminary series, but it'll go the full three games.

Experience Will Tell

Narberth has a team of former Lower Merion boys experienced in tournament play and they should be at their best under the pressure of the playoffs. The two occasions they defeated Upper Darby was by very decisive margins and we believe that's the tipoff as to the real strength of the two clubs. Narberth's hopes hinge on its ability to stop Bobby Suiter, voted the league's most valuable player, and we believe either Clarence Griffith or Len Jones can do the job necessary to assure victory.

Brookline, with only two players from last year's championship team, gets our vote over Wayne simply because the Brooks have always been a jinx to the Raiders. They beat them three times previously in playoff competition and they should be able to do it again inasmuch as they'll have an edge in height. They'll have just as much, probably more speed, they park just as heavy guns as the Raiders. And don't forget Brookline's screwy combination zone and man-to-man defense. No one likes to play against it and that'll be a big item in their favor.

How about the Narberth-Brookline series? Whoa! That's another story. Let's wait till we get to it.

Sugar Rationing Follows Easter

Teachers Will Register Buyers and Sellers At School Houses

Sugar rationing books for this section will continue to gather dust at the Montgomery County Commodities Rationing Board headquarters in Norristown until "some time after Easter."

Original plans called for enrollment of users from March 17 through March 20.

Township and borough users' books, part of the county's total of 387,000, are known as War Ration Book One.

Teachers in public schools will distribute the books after those qualified have registered with them. Parents and guardians will apply for books for individuals under 18.

Township To Get 43,000 Sugar Cards

More than 43,000 individuals in Lower Merion Township will receive sugar rationing cards, according to estimates made by township authorities.

These are in addition to the cards—or books—which go to sugar sellers.

Present plans call for individuals to get their rationing books at the elementary schools in their sections and the purveyors to get theirs at the high schools.

Each book, actually a sheet of 28 stamps to be folded into four sections by the recipient, contains a space for recording the holder's weight, age, height, sex and color of hair and eyes. Books are numbered serially.

The grocer filling each sugar order will tear off a corresponding number of stamps, one for each half pound issued.

The program now calls for rationing of that amount of sugar per person each week.

Dainty Accent

For dressy moments of fun, for meeting new friends for whom you want to look your very best, glorify your costume with a dainty cotton lace yoke. The yoke shown at the top in the above picture is made of diagonal stripes of Val lace, bordered by three ruffles of Val lace. This yoke has the very new deep neckline, finished off in a square shape by perky lace ruffles that give an elegant look to the shoulder line. Peggy Drake, who makes her debut on the screen this season, is shown at the bottom of the picture wearing one of the "Dum-bie" collars inspired by the Disney film of that name. The collar may be worn in different ingenious ways. Made of white satin, this collar draped over the shoulders in a carefree manner adds allure to any simple afternoon frock. In white tulle, the collar can be worn either as a vest or as a collar, as shown here.

Bryn Mawr and Haverford Students To Sing Mendelssohn's "Elijah"

An unusual musical service will be held in Goodhart Hall, Bryn Mawr College, this Sunday, at 8 p. m., when a chorale of Bryn Mawr and Haverford students will sing excerpts from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah." This oratorio has always been very popular because of its fine dramatic qualities and sublime and effective choruses, ever since it was first sung in England in 1846.

The chorus will be made up of 50 Bryn Mawr students under the direction of Ernest Wilfonghly, and 45 Haverford College students under the direction of Lindsey Lath-ford. The soloists are Mary Ramsey of Overbrook, Margot Dethier of New York, and Nancy Sepp of Bryn Mawr—all students at Bryn Mawr College—Richard Bauer of Haverford College, and David Bruce Scouler. The orchestra will number 30 members, drawn from Bryn Mawr girls, the Haverford College Orchestra, the Lower Merion High School Orchestra and professionals from Philadelphia. Mr. Wilfonghly will conduct the performance.

The combined Glee Clubs of Haverford and Bryn Mawr also plan a semi-production of "Parsifal" this May.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS came close to discovering the Pacific Ocean as well as the New World, according to Professor Samuel Eliot Morison of Harvard, who has written a book that will probably remain the best story of the great discoverer and his voyages in existence. It's called "Admiral of the Ocean Sea" and will go off to a flying start when the Book-of-the-Month Club begins to send it out to its members as a March selection.

SAMUEL ELIOT MORISON

voyage to undertake the Pacific. When he failed to find a strait, he continued on down the coast in search of a land.

Dr. Morison, who is one of our most eminent historians, did a unique research job for his great book. He actually sailed over the course of Columbus' four voyages himself. At various times he used a 147-foot barkentine, a 47-foot ketch, a cutter loaned him by the Haitian government, and a patrol boat of the Cuban navy.

Checking with Columbus' own journal, Dr. Morison actually located the exact site of the discoverer's first settlement, Navidad, on the coast of Santo Domingo—a place never previously identified. He verified many of Columbus' scientific observations which "armchair Admirals" had pooh-poohed.

The result of the four fact-finding expeditions undertaken by Dr. Morison and his Harvard research staff is "Admiral of the Ocean Sea." As Christopher Morley states in the current issue of the Book-of-the-Month Club News, here is a history which was written "not as the Macaulays and Prescotts did it, describing things as they should have been. This, as near as is humanly possible, is the story of Columbus written by one of his own companions and verified at the binocular itself. . . . Morison has done for Columbus what Boswell did for Dr. Johnson."

Now that the income tax deadline for 1941 is passed, we suggest Groucho Marx's "Manny Happy Returns" for a laugh comedy. Groucho answers such weighty questions as this: Can a man traveling through the Florida swamps followed by a pack of bloodhounds and a posse list his expenses as a business traveling item? Mr. Marx says you can make his book even more valuable than it is by tearing out the pages and replacing them with U. S. Defense Bonds.

Nowadays it's so luxurious traveling on a big transcontinental airline that it's hard to realize it wasn't always that way. Yet it wasn't so long since passengers were considered something of a nuisance. Henry Ladd Smith points out in his book on commercial aviation in the United States, "Airways." Among the first passengers were a honeymooning couple who paid one thousand dollars for a five hundred mile ride—and the privilege of sitting with the mail bags in the cargo hold.

The birgus latro is a large fat crab found in the islands of the Indo-Pacific. It is caught by the natives and melted solely for the oil its body contains, which amounts to slightly more than one pint.

Junior Leaguers To Give Show at Agnes Irwin School

On Saturday, March 28, the Junior League Players will present "Snow White and Rose Red" at 11 a. m. in the Agnes Irwin School auditorium. Reservations can be made at the Junior League club-rooms in the Warwick Hotel, Philadelphia, or by calling or writing Miss Priscilla Jamney, Bryn Mawr. Thousands of children have already enjoyed this performance of one of their favorite fairy tales. At the end of the season the Players will have trouped to 25 Philadelphia Public Schools. The characters are portrayed by Elizabeth Catlin, Polly Dexter, Mrs. Shepley Evans, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. David Peace, and Frances Herrick.

Mrs. Baltz Dies Very Suddenly

Car When She Collapsed

Mrs. Emma Butler Baltz, resident of Lower Merion Township for more than 60 years, died suddenly, Friday afternoon, as her son, Joseph M. Baltz, of Ardmore, was driving her to keep an appointment in Ardmore.

Mr. Baltz, who would have been 60 years old, was the widow of John R. Baltz, native of Glasgow, who died in 1928. She had returned only recently from spending several months in Florida.

Accomplished in the arts, and an especially fine singer, Mrs. Baltz was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Percival Johnson, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; two sons, Joseph M., prominent Ardmore insurance man, and Stanley, Ardmore; a grandson, John, Robert, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Pollock, State rd., Cynwyd, and Mrs. John Pearing, Wynonema, Ardmore.

Funeral services were held Monday at Frankfort's Funeral Home, Ardmore, with the Rev. Rex Brown, of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the family plot in West Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Gas-Masked Drivers To Operate Busses

If you think you see a Man from Mars hurrying past in a school bus, don't have a second thought.

Very likely, it will be a Lower Merion driver in a dress rehearsal for a gas attack.

The drivers have been equipped with gas masks, gloves and gas masks by the local defense council to act as emergency drivers in the far eventuality that this section is gassed.

Busmen were given instruction in handling gas masks and other necessary details at a meeting in the Township Building, Ardmore, on March 15.

The boys of Waldron Academy, Merion, entertained their mothers on Monday in honor of the first anniversary of the Waldron Mothers' Club, of which Mrs. Roy F. McGillicuddy, of 260 Beech Hill rd., Wynnewood, is president.

Each mother was welcomed with a corsage of yellow roses as she entered the auditorium. The program was opened by the Waldron Band playing "Golden Gate." The entire school then joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Master Charles J. Donahue addressed the mothers, and expressed the appreciation of the faculty and students for the constructive work of the club during the past year.

Each grade of the school presented a recitation beginning with "My Mother's Hat," given by the first grade, and ending with "Gaul-ter's Victory," by the eighth grade. The poems were interspersed with songs by the chorus.

Master Peter Heady was greeted with much applause when he sang "MacNamara's Band." The whole program was one of spirited patriotism, religion and child devotion.

Current Fashions Stress New Use of Daring Color Contrast

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AT FIRST this matter of using two or three colors together in daring contrast was regarded as an adventure that would give a new slant to fashion. It was a deliberate departure from traditional color technique that might reasonably be expected to prove a mere passing fad. However, this courage on the part of designers to start something new has not only added zest to fashion, but has developed a movement that is being carried over from one season to another with increasing enthusiasm.

This spring the fashion program has been a real headbanger. The contrasts that have been used are not only daring, but they are also new. The new phase of fashion, from bathing suits to sweaters and from daytime dresses to evening gowns, is a real headbanger.

Normally, designers are courageously handling color in new ways with an artistry that is winning tremendous applause.

To demonstrate the brilliant and audacious spirit style creators express in their use of color, note the daytime dress shown to the left in the group illustrated above. The dress in this instance is of narrow wale corduroy with sleeves and collar of bright red wool jersey. A patch pocket has a striking heraldic design embroidered in multi-colored yarns.

By the way, this idea of contrasting sleeves might serve as an inspiration in stretching a limited budget to meet the exigencies arising in present war times when even only a virtue every woman is urged to practice. For example, there's that dress hanging in your closet, "perfectly good," yet seeming to have outlived its usefulness. The sleeves show wear at the elbows. Why not rejuvenate this poor outcast with a new pair of sleeves in a bright, contrasting color? To complete the costume, add a belt, and, perhaps, pockets in the same bright color. You might even go so far as to do the contrast sleeves in a tri-color scheme, reserve for the top, gold for the center and purple for the lower arm portion, repeating the colors in pockets and neckline details.

Smartly typical of the new vogue for contrast is the dress shown to the right in the picture above. It has a definitely "peasant" feeling in its design, but it is a real headbanger.

Narberth School News

On Saturday, March 14, the day arrived for the long awaited trip to the Erlanger Theater. Under chaperons Mr. Lehman, Miss Hunsicker, and Mr. Drennen, 83 pupils left Narberth Public School at 9:30 to see the play "Toby Tyler."

On Monday, March 9, a photographer came to N. P. S. and took pictures of the pupils and teachers. These pictures will be placed in the school files. If the students or faculty wish they may purchase individual photos.

The entire school is looking forward to March 19 and 20, when Schoolmen's Week will take place. At this time the teachers will attend sessions at the University of Pennsylvania. The students will have a short vacation.
